

Is your residence permit for the purpose of “studies” ready to expire ?

Extend it properly.*

Visa

Which type of document do you have?

Long-term residence permit

What is the validity period of your visa?

Less than 1 year

- You can extend the visa up to its maximum duration (1 year).
- You can apply for the extension personally at an OPC office or you can send the application via post.
- You can also directly apply for long-term residence permit for purpose of “studies”.

Additional info

1 year

- Your visa cannot be extended because it reached its maximum duration.
- You have to submit a new application for long-term residence only in person at an OPC office.

Additional info

- You can apply for the extension personally at an OPC office or you can send the application via post.
- It is applicable only in case you continue your studies at the same school/university.

Additional info

*These information are valid only for foreign students from third countries.

In some cases you are obliged to pay an application fee. In case you send your application via post, please, do not forget to attach fee stamps of respective value (more info can be found under QR codes). If you are not sure what conditions apply in your case, please, contact the Infoline of the Ministry of the Interior of the Czech Republic.

There is a special OPC office at Hládkov for foreign students with residence in Prague.

OPCs - Ministry of the Interior's offices on the territory of the Czech Republic.

Infoline Mol ČR
+420 974 801 801

Contacts of OPCs
offices if the Mol

